2004 Large-Format Bookings Yearbook

Films and bookings of 2003

The average length of LF bookings declined again in 2003, continuing a trend that was already well under way when we published the first Bookings Yearbook six years ago. In 2003, the average booking lasted 175 days, down 5.4% from 2002's average of 185 days, and down nearly 42% from the first year we studied, 1997.

Chart 1 below illustrates the downward trend since our first Yearbook. The upper line represents the average length (in days) of bookings that started in the given month; the lower dashed line shows how many bookings started that month.

We collect bookings data from distributors and theaters every month, and have tabulated this year's report from a database of 1,930 bookings of 120 films in 332 theaters that occurred during calendar 2003. (See the note on page 5 for details of our statistical methods.)

This year we introduce a new measure for film performance, penetration. In the absence of attendance data (which would be more revealing of a film's true performance than the box office figures that are only available for some films), we hope that penetration will provide a new way of discerning the relative success of LF films. Simply put, penetration is the percentage of available theaters in which a given film has been booked. The concept and our results are described more fully in the section below headed "Market penetration."

The table below updates our comparable figures for 2002, which did not properly account for the shorter-than-average bookings of a few Hollywood releases that year. As a result, the average booking length reported in last year's Yearbook was overstated. With the corrected numbers we now see that bookings have maintained a nearly constant downward trend for three years running.

Bookings Started in	Average Length	% change	Number Counted
1997	301		287
1998	249	-17.3	443
1999	213	-14.5	508
2000	211	-0.9	671
2001	197	-6.6	885
2002	185	-6.1	891
2003	175	-5.4	1009

Changes in Average Booking Length for select LF bookings (see text)

Reasons for the decline

Until recently, the primary cause for the drop in booking length seemed to be the increasing number of films available, and the growing tendency of theaters to put more films on their schedule at a time. LF films typically remain in active distribution for at least five years, and many have lasted much longer than that. Thus the number of LF films in circulation has increased as the number of new releases has grown in recent years.

Industry old-timers can remember back a decade or two when most LF theaters booked only one film at a time, and kept that film for six months or a year. Later, more daring theaters booked two features, the newer one as the primary, or "A" film, the older, with fewer shows per week, as the "B" title.

But these days, most theaters make five, six, or more films available to their customers on any given day. The average number of films per theater over the course of a year is now 5.8. Of the 332 theaters represented in our count, 60, or 18%, booked ten or more films in 2003. (Table 1 on page 2 shows the list of theaters that ran five or more titles last year.)

Average films per theater

1997	4.3
1998	4.9
1999	5.2
2000	4.9
2001	5.8
2002	5.7
2003	5.8

But as the tables show, these trends have leveled off, while the average booking length continues to decline. Another cause must be at work.

The effect of Hollywood

The influx of Hollywood films that run for only two to four months is the main force driving booking lengths down. Two of last year's 14 LF releases (The Matrix Reloaded and The Matrix Revolutions) were 35mm films repurposed with Imax Corporation's DMR™ process, and one, Young Black Stallion, was an original LF film from The Walt Disney Company. Six of 2002's 21 films were repurposed. If those films are taken out of the mix, the average booking length in 2002 jumps to 215 days, and in 2003 rises to 203 days.

Of course, shorter bookings do not necessarily imply lower financial return for theaters or producers. If a film can make as much in two months as it might otherwise earn in six months, then everyone gains. This is the direction in which Hollywood studios have been moving for more than a decade with 35mm releases. Huge marketing campaigns and wide openings permit the studio to rake in as much cash as possible in the first few weeks. Blockbusters now routinely gross $50 million or more in the first weekend, a milestone it once took weeks or months for even big films to reach. By opening on 3,500 or more screens in North America, a film can earn a large percentage of its production budget in the first week. This can be very helpful if, as in the case of The Matrix Revolutions, the film is not very good: it takes in as much possible before reviews and word of mouth get around and attendance drops off.

But with comparatively minuscule marketing budgets and small numbers of available screens, traditional LF films have rarely been able to use this tactic or support the nationwide advertising it requires. LF films have generally rolled out over months or even years, and had active lives of at least four to five years, a far cry from the Hollywood model.

Excluding studio films, only a handful of giant-screen titles have even attempted what passes for a "wide" day-and-date release in the LF world. Michael Jordan to the Max is the leader, with 43 screens when it opened on May 5, 2000. Two years earlier, Everest was the first to attempt a "simultaneous" national opening, with 11 screens the first week, and another thirty or so in the following few weeks.

So for most traditional LF films, shorter bookings do equate to lower revenues, because they have no way to frontload their earnings into the first few weeks they way Hollywood does. Several distributors we spoke to for this story confirmed that average income per theater today is about 60% of what it was ten years ago. Although there are more theaters today, the "larger pie" doesn't make up for the drop, partly because of the polarization of the market into commercial and institutional segments.

Multiplexes vs. institutions

In the late 1990s, when the multiplex boom had begun, but before many Hollywood films were available in LF, most multiplexes showed the standard 40-minute non-fiction LF films, since little else was available. But once they found that their regular customers weren't buying, and that it was hard to bring in school groups and do their own local marketing, most resorted to showing 35mm prints in their LF houses.

Today, Disney and DMR films provide multiplex operators with product their audience likes, so most are no longer in the market for traditional 40-minute features. Over the past two years, Regal Entertainment Group, the largest conventional and LF exhibitor in the world, with over 6,100 35mm and 15 giant-screen theaters, has essentially stopped booking traditional LF films its IMAX theaters. Those screens now show only Disney and DMR films, plus occasional hybrids like NASCAR 3D. Canada's Famous Players chain, with seven IMAX theaters, follows essentially the same model.

Only two U.S. chains, Cinemark USA (with five IMAX screens) and Jack Loeks Theatres (with two), have made significant efforts to draw school and group sales with traditional non-fiction films, but they represent a small fraction of the North American commercial market.

Standalone commercial theaters are much more open to non-Hollywood fare, as are European multiplex operators. In fact, in Europe the situation is nearly the reverse of North America, with commercial theaters preferring traditional 40-minute LF titles to Hollywood fare by a 3-to1 margin in the last two years.

So for producers and distributors of traditional LF films, the growth in the commercial sector, at least in North America, has not been as great a boon as might have been expected.

Conversely, some institutional theaters show Hollywood films, but it's still a minority of the segment. In absolute numbers, Fantasia/2000 had the most, with 32 (out of 126), but as a percentage of the total, two recent films top it: NASCAR 3D, with nearly a third of its 74 bookings to date, and Young Black Stallion, nearly half of whose 51 bookings were in museums and science centers. (However, in the latter case, Buena Vista failed to make deals with Regal or Famous Players, which would have brought the numbers — both total bookings and institutional share — into rough parity with NASCAR.)

Chart 2 shows 30 selected films of the last six years, and breaks down their distribution to commercial (standalone) theaters, multiplexes, and institutions. (Theme parks are too small a segment to be meaningfully depicted in this chart.) The films are ranked, left to right, by decreasing percentage of institutional bookings. For example, more than three-fourths of the 68 bookings of Amazing Journeys (the first film on the left), were in institutions. At the other end, only 13% of Haunted Castle's 78 bookings were institutional. It is no surprise to see that nearly all the Hollywood films (NASCAR, Fantasia, The Lion King, Beauty and the Beast, and the Matrix films) are on the right side of the chart.

Market penetration

Table 3 on page 5 shows our new market penetration data. A word about the numbers and how they were reached.

Calculating the percentage of possible theaters a given film has reached is complicated by several factors, the primary one being the multiple film formats embraced under the "large-format" rubric. Since not all films are distributed in 8/70, and even fewer are printed to 10/70, it would be inappropriate to count those theaters against a film's potential market. Also, older films that are no longer active had a smaller universe of theaters available to them.

So to calculate penetration, we took the starting date of each film's latest (or last) booking, and counted the number of theaters open on that date. (This ensures that each film is measured against the actual number of theaters it could have reached by the end of its active life.) Penetration is the number of theaters that booked the film divided by the total number of theaters open at that time. If the film was distributed in 8/70 and/or 10/70, theaters with those formats are counted in the All Bookings total. We also present columns that show penetration in 15/70 theaters only, 8/70 theaters only, and both 8/70 and 15/70 (but not 10/70). The top 20 films released since 1997 are shown in each column. (Before 1997 our bookings data are incomplete.)

It will come as little surprise to see the "usual suspects" at the top of the penetration lists: Everest, Mysteries of Egypt, Space Station, and T-Rex. But notable is the relatively poor performance of the Hollywood titles, only six of which appear among the 34 films in these four top-20 lists. Among all formats, The Lion King is the top Hollywood film, but it is only in tenth place. This reflects the reluctance of many institutional theaters, which still make up the majority of the LF marketplace, to book commercial films. The strong performance of several Disney titles in the relatively small 8/70 market is explained by bookings in a handful of multiplex 8/70 theaters in North America and several less conservative institutional theaters with 8/70 systems.

Note that measuring penetration favors older films that have had a chance to work their way through the worldwide circuit of LF theaters. Except for studio films that receive little or no distribution after their initial release windows, recently released films will rarely have as high a penetration number as older titles. This explains the presence of older titles such as Africa: The Serengeti (1994) and Super Speedway (1997) in these lists.

Films and distributors

In a repeat of the 2002 race, Imax's Space Station had the greatest number of bookings in 2003, with 118, and Disney's The Lion King ran second, with 105. Somewhat more surprisingly, the third place title was Santa Vs. the Snowman, with 81 bookings. This is significantly better than its premiere performance in 2002, when, facing stiff competition from The Lion King and Star Wars, Episode II, it won only 40 leases. Santa seems to have found a place as a perennial Christmas film that The IMAX Nutcracker strove for, but never attained.

The two Matrix films follow, Revolutions with 76 bookings and Reloaded with 69. The Human Body comes in sixth in its second full year with 68, and Ghosts of the Abyss is next with 65. (See page 24 for the complete list.)

Among the top ten in bookings count, traditional documentary-style films hold six slots, if one places Ghosts in that category despite its Disney provenance. Only two studio films fall outside the top ten, Young Black Stallion, with 50 bookings is in 12th place, and Apollo 13, with 24, is in 22nd place.

Table 5 on page 6 shows competition among distributors over the past six years, sorted by 2003 bookings count. As usual, Imax Corporation is top of the list, with twice as many bookings (459) as its next closest rival, Disney/Buena Vista (228). Note that Disney reached its total with only five films, all in limited release, where Imax had a total of 29 titles in circulation.

Virtually tied for third place are Destination Cinema and nWave Pictures, with MacGillivray Freeman Films close behind in fifth. Warner Bros., with only the two Matrix films, is in sixth.

Mark Twain once said, "In the space of one hundred and seventy-six years the Lower Mississippi [river] has shortened itself two hundred and forty-two miles. This is an average of a trifle over one mile and a third per year. Therefore, any calm person, who is not blind or idiotic, can see that... a million years ago...the Lower Mississippi River was upward of one million three hundred thousand miles long."

By the same faulty reasoning, we can deduce that by 2020 the average LF booking will be five days long, and in 2021 bookings will have negative length. Although this scenario is preposterous, the shortening of bookings, along with declining film revenues, continues to be a concern to many in the industry.

One is reminded of the Chinese curse: May you live in interesting times.

Note

The average booking lengths referred to in this article were calculated by combining contiguous listings (which are shown as separate entries in our regular bookings lists) and excluding from the count

- Bookings that started before the year being averaged;
- Films for which we did not have precise start and end dates;
- Film festival screenings;
- School bookings (films shown irregularly to school groups, but which are not on the regular public schedule);
- Certain destination films with extremely long runs at their home theaters;
- Bookings in theaters that opened after Jan. 1, 2003.

This left 1009 records from which we calculated the average booking lengths in days, based on the starting date of the booking.

Acknowledgements

LF Examiner's bookings data would be substantially less complete without the nearly universal cooperation of the LF industry's distributors. I would like to extend special thanks to the following individuals who cheerfully and promptly supply me with data every month.

Bookings: 2003 by Film

1,930 bookings of 120 films at 332 theaters

The data on the following pages are not warranted to be comprehensive or accurate in every detail, despite our best efforts to make them so. They have been compiled from surveys of LF theaters, distributors, the world wide web, and other sources.

We will make every effort to improve the thoroughness, accuracy, and usefulness of these data. If your theater or film is not shown here, please get in touch with us to update our listings.

Where a date is not shown, it means that no date was provided by the source or, in the case of a closing date, that no date has been set, or that the run is indefinite.

The key to film abbreviations is on page 24.
